Spode

At Spode, we have been crafting timeless and versatile ceramics for over 250 years. Our earthenware factory sits in the heart of the Potteries, Stoke-on-Trent, the birthplace of our founder, master potter Josiah Spode I, and the city in which he chose to set up his pottery in 1770.

It's here that our talented team nurture a legacy of innovation, craftsmanship and distinguished design, with each Spode piece passing through 22 pairs of hands.

Spode is an eclectic mix of beautiful, intricate designs that each tell a story of its rich heritage. The perfect mix of timeless style, ceramic mastery and daring curiosity.

Blue Italian

Launched in 1816 and in production ever since, Blue Italian is now considered an iconic British design. The pattern itself features a finely detailed 18th century Imari Oriental border encompassing a scene inspired by the memories of international travellers.

The deep blue colourway set on a rich, white background is both distinctive and elegant, and radiates timeless sophistication.
